Introduction and Background

The three and a half days Entrepreneurship Skills Development (ESD) training is a key component of the CIS-Reverts Empowerment through Entrepreneurship Development (CIS-REED) project. This training held at CIS premises on 22nd, 23rd, 24th and 25th of November 2010. Major objective of the training program was to

- Provide skills related to entrepreneurship, marketing
- Enabling participant to prepare a simple business plan.

37 Participant from different parts of the Western province participated in the training. A mix of male and female participants of different age groups was present for this training. Most of the participants have had experience in business but haven't gained any academic or skills training related entrepreneurship previously.

Methodology

Combination of the following tools and techniques were used to make the training interactive and conducive for adult learning.

- Non-formal approach An environment for adult learning was set from the first day onwards. Participant set their own rules for and agreed on key points prior to the sessions.
- Through experiential learning tools participant were encouraged to share experiences. Reflections were published, discussed and used as a mean to unlearn perceptions. Each session started with suitable experiences and followed the following standard:

• Motivation: NLP and ice breaking techniques were used to engage participants in all time learning mode.

Pictorial Stories from training

Motivation of participants though energizers. Participant's attention to details was tested while orienting them towards a participatory learning environment.

'The ring toss' game was played to gain experience of real business environment. Three companies (Teams) played the game with a greater competition and with a big noise of enthusiasm.

More than 115 business ideas generated by participants based on the ability to invest, produce, market and making a reasonable profit. Ideas came from four groups:

Marriage related need, needs of child/feeding mother, general family needs and needs of elders.

Hands are together – working on the Egg Pack, which was used as an experience for the lesson 'the importance of packaging'.

The egg pack was introduced as a competition. Protection, Attraction, Convenience and advertisement were used as criteria for scoring.

Reviewing what they gained. Each day start with the discussion on the reflection of the precious day's learning outcome.

Another group on the Egg Pack

Participants were serious in producing items for the Mini Market exercise.

Every one strive to sell items at Mini Market. They were allowed to sell items owned by them or any items produced by them using the given raw materials. Sales were real and dealt with Sri Lankan rupees

The training ended with the group photo activity.
